Envoy To Washington At Time Of Sneak Punch Expects Trouble

By International News Service
Japan was warned today by its envoy to Washington at the time of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor that America will increase its mounting assaults on Nippon.

Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura who sat in an ante-room of the State department awaiting an interview with United States Secretary of State Hull at the hour Jap planes bombed Hawaii and the Philippines to start the war in the Pacific, told the Jap people that "hereafter America's counter-operations against Japan, with Anglo-American sea power as the root, will be hastened and will steadily swell."

Admiral Nomura's statement was broadcast by the Domei agency in a dispatch recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service.

The statement was made in an article written for the newspaper Yomiuri.

Action Decided

Nomura told the Japs that both the United States and Britain had decided to take action to prevent Japan from developing captured resources in occupied East Asia.

Domei said Nomura had traced the present developing Allied offensive against Japan to decisions reached at the conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Quebec.

"In the recent war situation centering around the Solomons," he was quoted as saying, "looking at the American adventuresome war manner of sailing forth even after being attacked, what first arises in my mind are the decisions of the Quebec conference held last August. At that conference, plans for joint operations pertaining to attack on Japan were first discussed between America and England. From Churchill's statements at that time, these were practically apparent. The fact that operations in the Solomons suddenly became positive is certainly one evidence of it."

Agree on War Aims

Domei quoted Nomura as telling the Japanese people that Britain and America had "decided not merely on war aims, but also on intimate cooperation by lining up together on the goal of operations in the Pacific."

He said that "such things" as the appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten to head the Allied southeast Asia command and the present American drive against Rabaul "definitely cannot be thought of (Continued on Page Two)"

PLUMBER HURT WHEN RUN DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

William Willoughby, East Water street plumber, was seriously injured shortly before 9 o'clock Friday evening when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Goeller, Circleville insurance man. Willoughby suffered a fracture of the right leg below the knee, head lacerations and possible internal injuries. The accident happened in front of the American hotel in North Court street.

Willoughby started across Court street from the hotel side and was struck by Goeller, who was traveling south. Witnesses said that Willoughby apparently did not see the approaching car, and Goeller said that he did not see Willoughby until it was too late to stop.

Willoughby was taken to the hospital in the Deffenbaugh ambulance. The exact extent of his injuries will not be determined for a day or two.

GERMANS PROMPT MOVE

Proposed Broadcast To Nationals Balked By Nazi Consul

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Dakar radio quoted the Vichy radio today as saying that Marshal Henri Philippe Petain had resigned as chief of state. Vichy declared:

"Petain has abdicated. This news obliges the population of France to absolute calm and all Frenchmen must be more united than ever."

LONDON, Nov. 20—Aged Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state of the Vichy government of France, was reported today to be a prisoner of the German occupation forces.

A Geneva, Switzerland, dispatch to the London Daily Express, said the marshal considers his position now similar to that of King Leopold of the Belgians.

According to a report to the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet of Stockholm Petain resigned his post and became a prisoner of Pierre Laval, chief of government and Nazi collaborator.

Petaine, according to the Daily Express, was completely isolated in his chateau at Castelton which was surrounded by pro-German armed police. He was said to be cut off from contact with members of the Vichy cabinet.

Border reports said the Germans were making frantic preparations to take over all of the Vichy governmental machinery.

Petaine's plight was said to have resulted from a move by the chief of state to deliver a speech in which he outlined a draft of a new Democratic constitution. Baron von Nidda, German consul general at Vichy, was reported to have stormed into Petaine's chateau a few minutes before the marshal planned to broadcast the speech and peremptorily ordered him to read a substitute message.

The Journal De Geneve in Switzerland published the alleged suppressed text of the Petaine message which said:

"Today I represent French constitutional authority which I intend to retain as a sacred trust and which I will return at my death to the national assembly from which I received it if a new constitution is not ratified. 'I do not desire my disappearance shall bring about an era of disorder which would imperil the unity of France. Such is the aim of the constitutional act which will be promulgated tomorrow in the official journal. 'Frenchmen, work together for the establishment of a new regime on the basis of which I will shortly communicate with you and which may give back France her grandeur.'"

RICHELIEU IN ALGIERS READY TO FIGHT HUNS

ALGIERS, Nov. 20—The sleek French battleship Richelieu, overhauled during an eight months stay in New York, rode at anchor in Algiers harbor today.

The proud vessel, heavyweight of the rejuvenated French navy, attracted all eyes along the waterfront and thousands of Frenchmen looked to its early return to battle for liberation of their country. Colorful ceremonies attended its return from America and long lines of visitors—including high ranking American, British and French military and naval leaders—have come to look the craft over.

JUNGLE TROOPS PUSH JAPS BACK

Allies Close In On Base Of Sattelberg While Airmen Pound Wide Area

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 20—Battle-hardened Australian jungle fighters closed in on the enemy-held base of Sattelberg in northeastern New Guinea today and United Nations airmen ranged all the way from the Solomons to Java in offensive blows at the Japanese.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the southwest Pacific, announced the ground and aerial advances in a communique which also told of the first Allied raid on enemy-held Bali.

In the advance on Sattelberg mission, in the New Guinea hills northwest of captured Finschhafen, the Aussies overcame heavy enemy resistance as well as treacherous jungle growths. They moved to within one mile of their objective from the east and south as Allied medium bombers blasted Japanese defense positions with 44 tons of explosives. Fires and considerable damage were caused in the target area.

Sattelberg, between Finschhafen and Madang, lies approximately 360 miles southwest of the enemy key base of Rabaul on New Britain island. It is directly east of the latter island's western tip.

While little was known of the advance of American marines and army troops on Bougainville, the Empress Augusta bay area where the Allied invasion was made enjoyed air support.

LOVE OF BABIES SENDS WOMAN INTO PRISON

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Childless twenty-year-old Mrs. Mary P. Tilove, today began a two-year term in prison because her love for children led her to kidnapping.

Convicted of abducting three-year-old Jimmy DiMaggio last summer, Mrs. Tilove admitted that she had taken the child from a New York City playground and brought him to Nashville, Tenn. as part of a plan to win back the love of her husband, Sgt. Augustus Tilove.

WILLKIE PLANS TOUR

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20—Costa Rican reports reaching Mexico City said that Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican nominee for the American presidency, was expected to visit Mexico and Central American countries shortly to gain a firsthand impression of these countries' postwar views. Both the foreign office and the American embassy, however, denied knowledge of Willkie's plans.

OFFICIALS URGE REDUCTION IN MEAT VALUES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Washington food officials appealed today to the OPA for drastic cuts in point values on meat following reports that six tons of meat are spoiling and being thrown away each week in the nation's capital.

Authorities said the huge wastage is due to a serious lack of refrigeration facilities to provide speedy turnover in meat stocks and the immediate need of lower point values to dispose of current warehouse supplies.

Arthur J. Harnett, secretary of the Washington Hotel Association, said he urged the OPA to order a temporary point value reduction for meat similar to the two-point cut in pork values which was announced earlier this week.

The OPA has taken no official action, but an agency spokesman pointed out that rationing regulations specifically provide for a 25 percent reduction in point values—with a corresponding price cut of 25 percent—to prevent spoilage.

Meat dealer representatives charged that the government recently increased slaughtering quotas without providing hotels and restaurants with additional ration points to absorb the huge surplus.

PERRY L. GREEN REELECTED AS F. B. PRESIDENT

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20—Perry L. Green, re-elected president of the Ohio Farm Federation, today was named to head a three man delegation of the American Farm Bureau Federation Convention in Chicago, December 7, 8 and 9.

The organization concluded its twenty-fifth anniversary convention at Columbus yesterday with Green re-elected for his eleventh term.

All other officers were also re-elected. They are Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary, beginning his twenty-fifth term; Max M. Scarff, New Carlisle, vice president; F. L. Cooper, Glenford, treasurer; L. A. Taylor, Columbus, assistant secretary, and J. E. Keltner, Columbus, assistant treasurer.

Green, George H. Dunlap, Cadiz, and W. E. Stough, Mansfield, were named as delegates to the Chicago convention.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 20—Thirteen men aboard a U. S. Army plane were missing today on an over-water flight, officials at the Morrison field air base at West Palm Beach revealed today.

Nine of the men were crew members of the plane, the other four were listed as passengers. Home addresses of the thirteen were not announced.

SHOTS INJURE TWO HUNTERS

Joseph Peters May Lose Foot—Railroad Man Loses Part Of Hand

Two hunters suffered injury due to accidental gun discharges as the annual rabbit and pheasant season got under way at noon Friday.

Joseph Peters, a prominent young Walnut township farmer, may lose a foot and is in a serious condition at Grant hospital in Columbus. He was unable to tell how the accident happened, but it is believed that he tripped near his cattle barn when going to the field, the shotgun falling and discharging into his right foot. Hunters in the vicinity heard him call for help and took him to the office of Dr. R. S. Hosler, of Ashville, from where he was removed to the hospital.

Theodore Blackwell, a fireman on the Norfolk and Western railroad, lost part of his left hand shortly before noon Friday when on his way to start hunting along the railroad right of way. He was taken to Berger hospital where his condition is not regarded as serious. Mr. Blackwell's home is in New Albany.

Despite the fact that rabbits and birds are plentiful this year, many hunters returned before dark with empty game bags. The day was hot and some attribute the lack of game movement to this fact.

Two Ohio hunters died and a third was wounded in his left foot on the first day of the hunting season, it was reported today.

W. R. Dennis, 43, died of a heart attack while he was shooting pheasant near Wauseon and Louis M. Clifford, 64, president of the Home Agency Insurance Co., Akron, was overcome also by a heart attack when hunting near Fostoria.

Herman Locke, 33, was wounded in his foot when a shotgun he was cleaning was discharged in his trailer home in Columbus. Locke was inducted last Monday and was preparing to sell the gun before entering the Navy, his wife said.

MORE EMPLOYED NOW IN U. S. THAN IN ALL HISTORY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—More persons were working in the United States in the month of September than ever before in the history of the country, the National Industrial Conference board disclosed today.

In a report prepared by the board's division of industrial economics, it was shown that 64.7 million persons were gainfully employed in industry or in the armed forces. Of this number 16,000,000 were in government employ, including the armed forces as against 6.8 million a year ago.

Italians, Huns Help In Harvest

Nearly 47,000 Prisoners Of War Pinch Hitting On American Farms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—A War Food Administration spokesman disclosed today that nearly 47,000 German and Italian prisoners of war currently are being used to help harvest this nation's record 1943 food crop.

Of the total 140,000 war prisoners interned in the United States, the spokesman said, an undisclosed number also are pinch-hitting in food canning plants where labor shortages have been acute.

At the same time, the spokesman revealed that the government is considering a plan to use Italian prisoners for farm work without armed guards. Now that Italy has dropped out of the war, the interned Italians in this country are not strictly prisoners of war, he said.

Details of this new proposal, which has been under consideration for several weeks, will be worked out by the Army, he declared.

Under present arrangements, both German and Italian war prisoners are kept under constant guard with guards accompanying internees to their work in the field or canning plant.

War prisoners are paid the prevailing wage in the community but, here's the catch—their employer pays the money direct to Uncle Sam and it goes into the U. S. treasury.

Actually, the prisoners receive—when they work in the fields or in canneries—80 cents a day as outlined at the Geneva convention in 1929.

The WFA spokesman pointed out, however, that the prisoners average only about 10 days work per month per man and said that "they don't compare with American farm labor in man hours by a long ways."

Generally speaking, Italians make better farm hands than Germans, he declared. Nazi prisoners are, for the most part, sullen and prefer not to work, according to the WFA official.

Among the types of jobs in which the 47,000 war prisoners have been used are harvesting tomatoes, potatoes, peanuts, cotton, sugar beets and corn. The 57 permanent prison camps, supervised by the war department, have been strategically located at the suggestion of WFA in areas where farm manpower shortages exist. These camps are located in such widely separated states as Georgia, Colorado, Texas and New York.

Two Ohio hunters died and a third was wounded in his left foot on the first day of the hunting season, it was reported today.

W. R. Dennis, 43, died of a heart attack while he was shooting pheasant near Wauseon and Louis M. Clifford, 64, president of the Home Agency Insurance Co., Akron, was overcome also by a heart attack when hunting near Fostoria.

Herman Locke, 33, was wounded in his foot when a shotgun he was cleaning was discharged in his trailer home in Columbus. Locke was inducted last Monday and was preparing to sell the gun before entering the Navy, his wife said.

Saturday, the OPA announced that the price ceiling on shotgun shells applies to individuals as well as stores. The approved price is $1.38 per box for 12 gauge shells and $1.32 for 16 and 20 gauge shells.

Maximum prices have been established by OPA regulations for rabbits both live and dressed. Wild rabbits are given a maximum price of 40 cents a head at retail.

Domestic rabbits at wholesale are priced at 44 cents a pound when table-dressed, and 30 cents a pound hog dressed. "Hog dressed" means rabbits sold with the skin on or which cannot qualify as a dressed rabbit.

Domestic rabbits sold to consumers have a ceiling of 55 cents a pound table dressed, and 35 cents for "hog dressed."

There is a two cent differential as between white and colored rabbits. The regulation permits a charge of 20 cents for custom slaughtering of rabbits, or the skin and by-products.

LEVERKUSEN HIT BY SATURATION RAIN OF BOMBS

Only Five Of Sky Giants Fail To Return From Raid On Reich

BERLIN STILL BLAZING

Russ Suffer Setback On One Front, Repulse Huns On Another

By International News Service
German Rhineland munitions and chemical center of Leverkusen, where German poison gas components are manufactured, was blasted last night by powerful RAF bombers.

The assault was a continuation of the Allied aerial campaign to bomb Germany out of the war. Other British heavy bombers smashed additional Rhineland objectives. Mines were dropped in enemy-controlled waters.

Five planes were reported missing as a result of the night's operations.

The air ministry communique said that weather conditions prevented immediate observation of the results of the main assault on Leverkusen.

Berlin Blazing

Reports from the continent said Berlin, target along with Ludwigschafen in Thursday night's dual assault, still was aflame when the British craft struck again in the mounting Allied aerial campaign to obliterate Nazi war production centers and pave the way for invasion of the German-held continent.

The RAF bombers headed for Europe in force. Coastal observers, judging the size of the squadrons which went across the English channel, said that the planes were equal in strength to the bomber forces which loosed concentrated saturation raids on Berlin and Ludwigschafen, Rhineland chemical production center, less than 24 hours before.

The speedy bombers required three-quarters of an hour to pass a given point over the coast. It was fully expected that the bomb load was equal to the estimated 2,500 tons dropped on the Nazi capital and Ludwigschafen, both of which were hit by greater amounts of explosives than any city in Britain during the height of the 1940 blitz, was unloaded on last night's target.

May Be Forerunner
The terrific RAF assaults, combined with battering raids by bombers of the United States Eighth Air Force on Nazi targets in Europe, were believed to be the forerunner of what may prove to be the final phase of the Allied aerial campaign to knock Germany out of the war.

The twin assault on Berlin and Ludwigschafen in which the hundreds of tons of explosives were dropped on Germany was part of the major aerial campaign promise the Germans by both Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Air Marshal Sir Arthur Travers Harris, chief of the British bomber command.

The Berlin and Ludwigschafen raids marked the first time that two major saturation raids were carried out simultaneously over the Reich. In previous twin or (Continued on Page Two)

LONDON, Nov. 20—Frank E. Gannett, prominent American publisher, looked today to a relatively early end of the war in Europe.

Gannett, on completion of a three-weeks goodwill tour of Allied military installations in Britain, declared:

"I had written November 1944 as my guess of when the war would be over, but after visits to British war factories, bomber fields and generals and other leaders I have altered it to a much earlier date."

Hunters in the vicinity heard him call for help and took him to the office of Dr. R. S. Hosler, of Ashville, from where he was removed to the hospital.

Theodore Blackwell, a fireman on the Norfolk and Western railroad, lost part of his left hand shortly before noon Friday when on his way to start hunting along the railroad right of way. He was taken to Berger hospital where his condition is not regarded as serious. Mr. Blackwell's home is in New Albany.

Despite the fact that rabbits and birds are plentiful this year, many hunters returned before dark with empty game bags. The day was hot and some attribute the lack of game movement to this fact.

Two Ohio hunters died and a third was wounded in his left foot on the first day of the hunting season, it was reported today.

W. R. Dennis, 43, died of a heart attack while he was shooting pheasant near Wauseon and Louis M. Clifford, 64, president of the Home Agency Insurance Co., Akron, was overcome also by a heart attack when hunting near Fostoria.

Herman Locke, 33, was wounded in his foot when a shotgun he was cleaning was discharged in his trailer home in Columbus. Locke was inducted last Monday and was preparing to sell the gun before entering the Navy, his wife said.

MORE EMPLOYED NOW IN U. S. THAN IN ALL HISTORY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—More persons were working in the United States in the month of September than ever before in the history of the country, the National Industrial Conference board disclosed today.

In a report prepared by the board's division of industrial economics, it was shown that 64.7 million persons were gainfully employed in industry or in the armed forces. Of this number 15,000,000 were in government employ, including the armed forces as against 6.8 million a year ago.

Italians, Huns Help In Harvest

Nearly 47,000 Prisoners Of War Pinch Hitting On American Farms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A War Food Administration spokesman disclosed today that nearly 47,000 German and Italian prisoners of war currently are being used to help harvest this nation's record 1943 food crop.

Of the total 140,000 war prisoners interned in the United States, the spokesman said, an undisclosed number also are pinch-hitting in food canning plants where labor shortages have been acute.

At the same time, the spokesman revealed that the government is considering a plan to use Italian prisoners for farm work without armed guards. Now that Italy has dropped out of the war, the interned Italians in this country are not strictly prisoners of war, he said.

Details of this new proposal, which has been under consideration for several weeks, will be worked out by the Army, he declared.

Under present arrangements, both German and Italian war prisoners are kept under constant guard with guards accompanying internees to their work in the field or canning plant.

War prisoners are paid the prevailing wage in the community but—and here's the catch—their employer pays the money direct to Uncle Sam and it goes into the U. S. treasury.

Actually, the prisoners receive—when they work in the fields or in canneries—80 cents a day as outlined at the Geneva convention in 1929.

The WFA spokesman pointed out, however, that the prisoners average only about 10 days work per month per man and said that "they don't compare with American farm labor in man hours by a long ways."

Generally speaking, Italians make better farm hands than Germans, he declared. Nazi prisoners are, for the most part, sullen and prefer not to work, according to the WFA official.

Among the types of jobs in which the 47,000 war prisoners have been used are harvesting tomatoes, potatoes, peanuts, cotton, sugar beets and corn. The 57 permanent prison camps, supervised by the war department, have been strategically located at the suggestion of WFA in areas where farm manpower shortages exist. These camps are located in such widely separated states as Georgia, Colorado, Texas and New York.

SHELL CEILING PRICE APPLIES ON ALL SALES

Shotgun shells are extremely short in Pickaway county and because of this fact, coupled with opening of the hunting season, the ammunition has been selling outside of legitimate stores at fancy prices. Some individuals have disposed of shells at prices several times their original cost.

Saturday, the OPA announced that the price ceiling on shotgun shells applies to individuals as well as stores. The approved price is $1.35 per box for 12 gauge shells and $1.32 for 16 and 20 gauge shells.

Maximum prices have been established by OPA regulations for rabbits both live and dressed. Wild rabbits are given a maximum price of 40 cents a head at retail.

Domestic rabbits at wholesale are priced at 44 cents a pound when table-dressed, and 30 cents a pound hog dressed. "Hog dressed" means rabbits sold with the skin on or which cannot qualify as a dressed rabbit.

Domestic rabbits sold to consumers have a ceiling of 55 cents a pound table dressed, and 35 cents for "hog dressed."

There is a two cent differential as between white and colored rabbits. The regulation permits a charge of 20 cents for custom slaughtering of rabbits, or the skin and by-products.

BERLIN STILL BLAZING

Russ Suffer Setback On One Front, Repulse Huns On Another

By International News Service
German Rhineland munitions and chemical center of Leverkusen, where German poison gas components are manufactured, was blasted last night by powerful RAF bombers.

The assault was a continuation of the Allied aerial campaign to bomb Germany out of the war. Other British heavy bombers smashed additional Rhineland objectives. Mines were dropped in enemy-controlled waters.

Five planes were reported missing as a result of the night's operations.

The air ministry communique said that weather conditions prevented immediate observation of the results of the main assault on Leverkusen.

Leverkusen, situated six miles north of Cologne, had been attacked five times previously. The last RAF raid took place in August.

Berlin Blazing

Reports from the continent said Berlin, target along with Ludwigshafen in Thursday night's dual assault, still was aflame when the British craft struck again in the mounting Allied aerial campaign to obliterate Nazi war production centers and pave the way for invasion of the German-held continent.

The RAF bombers headed for Europe in force. Coastal observers, judging the size of the squadrons which went across the English channel, said that the planes were equal in strength to the bomber forces which loosed concentrated saturation raids on Berlin and Ludwigshafen, Rhineland chemical production center, less than 24 hours before.

The speedy bombers required three-quarters of an hour to pass a given point over the coast. It was fully expected that the bomb load was equal to the estimated 2,500 tons dropped on the Nazi capital and Ludwigshafen, both of which were hit by greater amounts of explosives than the Nazis were able to loose on any city in Britain during the height of the 1940 blitz, was unloaded on last night's target.

May Be Forerunner

The terrific RAF assaults, combined with battering raids by bombers of the United States Eighth Air Force on Nazi targets in Europe, were believed to be the forerunner of what may prove to be the final phase of the Allied aerial campaign to knock Germany out of the war.

The twin assault on Berlin and Ludwigshafen in which the hundreds of tons of explosives were dropped on Germany was part of the major aerial campaign promise the Germans by both Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Air Marshal Sir Arthur Travers Harris, chief of the British bomber command.

The Berlin and Ludwigshafen raids marked the first time that two major saturation raids were carried out simultaneously over the Reich. In previous twin or (Continued on Page Two)

GANNETT SEES EARLY END TO EUROPEAN WAR

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Frank E. Gannett, prominent American publisher, looked today to a relatively early end of the war in Europe.

Gannett, on completion of a three-weeks goodwill tour of Allied military installations in Britain, declared:

"I had written November 1944 as my guess of when the war would be over, but after visits to British war factories, bomber fields and generals and other leaders I have altered it to a much earlier date."

Triple raids only one target was hit with a concentrated attack while the others were subsidiary. Britons anticipated that Germany now will be rocked regularly by thousands of tons of high explosives and incendiaries night after night provided weather conditions permit.

More than 350 "cookie" block-busters of 4,000 pounds were smashed down on Berlin Thursday night and it was reported that traffic in the Nazi capital was completely paralyzed.

The Allies maintained their offensive against the Nazis on the ground in Italy, too. Although no appreciable gains were reported on the Fifth Army section of the trans-Italian battlefield due to continued bad weather, the British Eighth Army marched forward on the eastern end of the line.

Huns Stung
The Britons, under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, inflicted casualties on the German forces in several successful patrol clashes.

Strong resistance by the Germans was reported, especially on the front opposite the Anglo-American forces of American Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark. There Nazi artillery hurled salvo after salvo into the Allied positions.

Particularly fierce and, to some extent successful, opposition by the Germans marked the battle on the eastern front. After some 150,000 Nazi troops forced the Red Army to withdraw yesterday from the important rail junction of Zhitomir, which had been occupied scarcely a week before, the Red Army was placed on the defensive at another communications center.

Front dispatches told of desperate German attempts to retake Ovruch, vital juncture on the Leningrad-Odessa railway, taken by a surprise assault of airborne Russian troops only yesterday. The Nazi counter-attacks were said to have been successfully beaten off.

Other Red Army units made progress, though, especially around Cherkassy where skytroopers pounded at the city's gates, 60 miles southeast of Kiev.

A German attempt to smash through Yugoslav positions in the Gracanica area in eastern Bosnia was repulsed by partisan forces, and clashes were reported in various sections of Dalmatia.

Progress in Pacific

In the Pacific theatre, meanwhile, the Allied air and ground campaigns continued making progress. As the Marshall and Gilbert Islands were pounded for the sixth consecutive day by American four-motored Liberators, carrier-based aircraft extended the aerial offensive by dumping 90 tons of bombs on the atolls and other vital enemy installations at Nauru, 500 miles west of the Gilberts. Sole cost to the raiders was one wounded airman, although considerable damage was reported to the target areas.

Other airmen supported Allied ground operations in the Bougainville section of the Solomons, battering the Buka area in six successive raids by medium, heavy, torpedo and dive bombers. Seventy-one tons of explosives were unloaded on the enemy here.

Two Jap raids on shipping and the Empress Augusta bay bridgehead were unsuccessful and in one

NEW OFFICERS

HANOVER, N. H.—Dartmouth college, which has the largest Navy V-12 training program in the country, has graduated its first batch of Navy and Marine officer candidates. Three hundred cadets have been sent to Parris Island and Midshipmen's schools for further training. V-12 freshmen who will enter in November are expected to restore Dartmouth's record complement of 2,000 men.

HE DID IT AGAIN

DALLAS, Ore.—For the last two years Carol Enstad has greeted the opening of school by spraining his ankle. His brother, now stationed at Wilmington, Delaware, wrote recently, "School is about to open once again, and while it is expecting quite a bit, I do hope Carol will enter on his own two feet."

Playing football the opening day of school, Carol jumped for a passed ball and sprained his ankle.

TROLLEY FLEAS

CLEVELAND—According to an unidentified complainant, dog days are over for fleas as they now ride on trolleys. The young woman said that while riding to work on Cleveland's street cars, she and some of her friends had been bitten on the backs of their legs by fleas. She said she had decided the fleas hide in the straw seats in streetcars and then come out and bite when the ladies sit down.

HOLIDAYS PRESENT EVERY HOUSEWIFE WITH CHANCE TO BRING CHEER TO SERVICE MEN

TALKING TURKEY?—This trio of clean-cut young servicemen would make fine holiday dinner guests.

By WILLIAM A. RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The three holidays immediately ahead—Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year—offer housewives who can do so a real opportunity to treat men of the Allied armed forces to hospitality which will not be forgotten for years to come.

It was my wife's idea. It started last Thanksgiving. I sauntered into the dining room for a preview of the turkey dinner she had been working on. I noticed two extra plates at the table and promptly asked about them. I knew that two guests were expected but I hadn't known about four.

"We're going to entertain two men in uniform," she announced.

"Is that right?" I replied. "And whom may they be?"
"I don't know," she confessed. "But we're not going to sit down until we have two men in uniform at this table."

Finding Two Guests

Just before dinner time she asked me if I would go out and get two men in uniform. I hesitated. She started to take off her apron. "Well, I'm going to get them if you don't."

I did. I strolled down Hollywood boulevard. At the corner of Highland avenue I stopped two sailors, obviously wondering what to do with themselves.

We had a splendid day of it, with these two sailors. It made Thanksgiving more than just another Thanksgiving.

Hundreds of thousands of servicemen will be enjoying leaves at cities and towns the length and breadth of the nation. True, they can stop in and get a big dinner with all the trimmings at any one of a number of eating places.

To men, apart from their families and away from their homes, there's nothing as cheering and heart-warming as the hospitality of other homes. It makes them far better soldiers, sailors, marines, aviators and merchant seamen. They see most convincingly what they are fighting for.

In most west coast cities extensive plans have been made through Home Hospitality committees affiliated with USO centers to have hundreds of men entertained over these holidays. The USO encourages more than just a meal, urging housewives to plan parties for these weekends if they can conveniently do so. Sons, brothers and husbands have left many of these homes to go into the service.

The USO, at any city or town in the nation, will be pleased indeed to have you notify its staff that you'd like to have a couple of men as your guests for either one of these holiday occasions.

The USO advises against any elaborate preparations. It's out of step with the times and detracts from the sincerity of the offered hospitality. The USO recommends the technique of simply adding another plate or two to your table. Nothing more than that.

No Trimmings, Please!

USO executives testify that this is the type of reception which servicemen appreciate the most. They are embarrassed and feel out of place to come into a strange home and find a lot of special trimmings put on for them. They much prefer to come in as just another member of the family for the day.

The USO staff is trained and well experienced in handling servicemen, selecting them, and giving them behavior instruction which will assure a congenial time.

Servicemen first like to talk about home, the USO finds. The coming holidays may be filled with significance for thousands of men away from their homes if enough housewives will go to that little bit of extra trouble to set another plate or two.

A phone call to the nearest USO center will assure you of a couple of fine clean-cut young men in uniform. They will enjoy seeing your home and sharing your holiday meal—and telling you all about the homes they came from.

FEDERAL ORDER BLAMED FOR BIG MEAT LOSS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Sen. Hugh Butler (R) Neb., charged today that the country faces a loss of 100,000,000 pounds of meat because the government has told western farmers to cut sugar beet production.

"There has been so much emphasis put on the need for potatoes, beans and other war crops, and prices for them are so much better than cattle, lamb and sheep meat cannot get enough sugar beet feed," Butler said.

"The tops and pulp from sugar beets make the best livestock feed available, producing even more meat than corn. The annual meat production from sugar beet by-products such as tops and pulp is over 300 million pounds. But sugar beet acreage is down. Lower meat production is inevitable."

Butler confirmed reports that the sugar beet output will be 35 to 40 percent lower than normal. Instead of being reduced, he said, it should be increased on the basis of a projected 10 year program.

BAD POETRY AND PHILOSOPHY GET NAZIISM BLAME

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Bad poetry and wrong philosophy produced German Nazism, Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, maintained today.

"The ideals, the hopes, the ambitions, as well as the doubts, the anxieties and fears of millions of men will prove decisive," Dr. Conant told the American Philosophical Society in Philadelphia, "and these are largely conditioned by poetry and philosophy."

"Nazism triumphed in Germany not because the Germans were lacking in power to advance learning," he said, "but because bad poetry and a wrong philosophy prevailed."

"We shall win the battle of freedom by continuing the spirit of national unity achieved in time of war. And I believe we shall come out without the violence of revolution or counter-revolution."

TROLEY FLEAS

CLEVELAND—According to an unidentified complainant, dog days are over for fleas as they now ride on trolleys. The young woman said that while riding to work on Cleveland's street cars, she and some of her friends had been bitten on the backs of their legs by fleas. She said she had decided the fleas hide in the straw seats in streetcars and then come out and bite when the ladies sit down.

HOLIDAYS PRESENT EVERY HOUSEWIFE WITH CHANCE TO BRING CHEER TO SERVICE MEN

TALKING TURKEY?—This trio of clean-cut young servicemen would make fine holiday dinner guests.

By WILLIAM A. RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The three holidays immediately ahead—Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year—offer housewives who can do so a real opportunity to treat men of the Allied armed forces to hospitality which will not be forgotten for years to come.

It was my wife's idea. It started last Thanksgiving. I sauntered into the dining room for a preview of the turkey dinner she had been working on. I noticed two extra plates at the table and promptly asked about them. I knew that two guests were expected but I hadn't known about four.

"We're going to entertain two men in uniform," she announced.

"Is that right?" I replied. "And whom may they be?"

"I don't know," she confessed. "But we're not going to sit down until we have two men in uniform at this table."

Finding Two Guests

Just before dinner time she asked me if I would go out and get two men in uniform. I hesitated. She started to take off her apron. "Well, I'm going to get them if you don't."

I did. I strolled down Hollywood boulevard. At the corner of Highland avenue I stopped two sailors, obviously wondering what to do with themselves. We had a splendid day of it, with these two sailors. It made Thanksgiving more than just another Thanksgiving.

Hundreds of thousands of servicemen will be enjoying leaves at cities and towns the length and breadth of the nation. True, they can stop in and get a big dinner with all the trimmings at any one of a number of eating places.

To men, apart from their families and away from their homes, there's nothing as cheering and heart-warming as the hospitality of other homes. It makes them far better soldiers, sailors, marines, aviators and merchant seamen. They see most convincingly what they are fighting for.

In most west coast cities extensive plans have been made through Home Hospitality committees affiliated with USO centers to have hundreds of men entertained over these holidays. The USO encourages more than just a meal, urging housewives to plan parties for these weekends if they can conveniently do so. Sons, brothers and husbands have left many of these homes to go into the service.

The USO, at any city or town in the nation, will be pleased indeed to have you notify its staff that you'd like to have a couple of men as your guests for either one of these holiday occasions.

The USO advises against any elaborate preparations. It's out of step with the times and detracts from the sincerity of the offered hospitality. The USO recommends the technique of simply adding another plate or two to your table. Nothing more than that.

No Trimmings, Please!

USO executives testify that this is the type of reception which servicemen appreciate the most. They are embarrassed and feel out of place to come into a strange home and find a lot of special trimmings put on for them. They much prefer to come in as just another member of the family for the day.

The USO staff is trained and well experienced in handling servicemen, selecting them, and giving them behavior instruction which will assure a congenial time.

Servicemen first like to talk about home, the USO finds. The coming holidays may be filled with significance for thousands of men away from their homes if enough housewives will go to that little bit of extra trouble to set another plate or two.

A phone call to the nearest USO center will assure you of a couple of fine clean-cut young men in uniform. They will enjoy seeing your home and sharing your holiday meal—and telling you all about the homes they came from.

FEDERAL ORDER BLAMED FOR BIG MEAT LOSS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Sen. Hugh Butler (R) Neb., charged today that the country faces a loss of 100,000,000 pounds of meat because the government has told western farmers to cut sugar beet production.

"There has been so much emphasis put on the need for potatoes, beans and other war crops, and prices for them are so much better than cattle, lamb and sheep meat, that we can't get enough sugar beet feed," Butler said.

"The tops and pulp from sugar beets make the best livestock feed available, producing even more meat than corn. The annual meat production from sugar beet by-products such as tops and pulp is over 300 million pounds. But sugar beet acreage is down. Lower meat production is inevitable."

Butler confirmed reports that the sugar beet output will be 35 to 40 percent lower than normal. Instead of being reduced, he said, it should be increased on the basis of a projected 10 year program.

JAPANESE-AMERICANS
HUMAN nature seems about the same everywhere, but in war time there is danger of overlooking such facts. Thus many members of the Japanese race who are good Americans now have a rather tough time of it.
Insisting that Japanese Americans are really Americans, one of them makes this appeal to his transplanted fellow-countrymen. He says:

"People are afraid of the unknown. When they do not know us, they are afraid of us. We have found this to be a fact. So many people have commented, 'Why, you are no different from us!' The sooner we become an integral part of a community, the better it will be for all of us. It will, I think, to some extent alleviate one of the postwar problems—the race question."
Another Japanese American makes this sensible statement.
"Above all, we who are at liberty must remember that we are ambassadors for the scores who are still in camps. We of Japanese ancestry are on trial as never before. The thing now is to prove to the general public that it is not a matter of race, that people are the same regardless of their origins, and that those of Japanese ancestry are not different."
This is a very old problem, always more difficult in war time. But it can be solved on both sides by honest men of good will.

MAKING GENERALS PAY
IN PUNISHING German war criminals, if the future is anything like the past, the generals will escape scot free. Many generals have died in battle, and perhaps still more in bed. Hardly any have been executed for misdeeds in time of war.
Almost the only general who was executed for any reason was Ney, the brilliant marshal of Napoleon, who called him "the bravest of the brave." He was shot by the Bourbon king of France for leading an uprising in behalf of Napoleon—in other words, for treason.
Presumably the reason why generals have enjoyed this immunity is that they have been considered mere agents, not responsible for the orders they carried out. It might be a healthy thing if some of the Nazi commanders who have been particularly cruel to the peoples at their mercy should be made to pay the penalty. After all, even if he is a general, there are limits beyond which an honorable man cannot go.

Probably the most difficult art is the art of government. Next to that is carving a skinny chicken for a large family.
These are days when the he-man takes his trusty gun and hikes to the woods for unrationed food.

● WASHINGTON—I am beginning to worry about the post-war world. It is beset by dangers. Not from enemies. But from over-zealous friends.
Every magazine, every public speech and private conversation has a plan. The plan. THE PLAN OF ALL PLANS, to slick up this troubled globe. I am beginning to fear that so much polishing will take the starch out of our weary planet and put it among such terrestrial has-beens as the moon.
Do the best we can with the heavenly body on which we temporarily dwell. By all and every means, do the best we can. But don't let's be so unaturally good, so aseptic that we'll shrivel and wither away. This is what happens to all kinds of animal matter, including human flesh, if it is made too sterile.
Humor The post-war world needs a few besetting sins to keep it scratching for life and progress. David Harum's dog, remember, had to have fleas to keep from thinking about being a dog.
In addition to loving one and all, Hottentots included, every instant of the day and night, we who survive this war must be prepared to skim through the air on some advanced type of flying trapeze. We must use happily electric gadgets yet unknown to man or woman. We must eat dehydrated foods.
We must work with exquisite inspiration with business, agriculture, labor, private enterprise, government radicals, government conservatives, Communists, reformed Fascists, sharecroppers, ballet dancers, South African diamond miners, East Indian cable choppers, war veterans, dress designers, radio commentators, spiteful columnists, jobless generals, fleetless admirals, cause-less ladies, unneighborly good neighbors, dollar-a-year men minus the dollar, Asiatic immigrants and millions of unemployed.

HULL'S HISTORIC TALK
WASHINGTON — Secretary Hull's historic appearance before congress to report on his mission to Moscow was unanimously considered helpful, especially by a group of senators who long ago urged Hull to be more cooperative with the senate. They believe some of the mistakes of the war might have been avoided had there been more cooperation in the past.

Leader of this group is far-sighted Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, who, nearly three years ago, saw what might be coming and introduced a resolution—February, 1941—calling upon Secretary Hull to give the senate the true picture of the international situation, especially in the Far East.

But Wiley's resolution was frowned upon by the State department, and got nowhere. Could Hull have been persuaded to report to the senate then presumably he would have included the warning of U. S. Ambassador Grew, who had told Hull, in January, 1941, that the Japs were ready for war and that an attack could be expected anytime.

Senate leaders are confident that, if they had had close cooperation with Secretary Hull, they could have persuaded congress — even senate isolationists — to vote more money for planes, and could have kept the nation much more on the alert. Thus, Pearl Harbor might not have happened.

"With knowledge of Grew's report," says Senator Wiley, "we would not have been caught with our suspenders off. With more cooperation between Hull and the senate, we might now be one year ahead in the Pacific. Hull is making a good beginning, but it is three years late. Let's hope such cooperation will be our constant practice in the future."

KITCHEN QUEENS ABDICATE
Henry Wallace is beginning to wonder if women war workers will ever go back to their kitchens. His doubts came like a flash during a talk he was giving to a group of war workers at the White Motors plant in Cleveland.

He thought the women in overalls were particularly intrigued by the passage of his speech describing the effect which new inventions would have on post-war households. Waxing enthusiastic, he described the new ice-boxes, heating equipment, maybe even automatic diaper-changers.

Then he came to the punch line. "These things will all be waiting for you women when you go back into the home."
Instead of cheering, the feminine audience groaned. Wallace suddenly added—"if you want to go back!"
The women broke into loud cheers.

CORN-PRICE WAR
The corn war is on again—to determine whether to let the price rise above present ceilings. Last Summer's battle on the same issue was settled by holding the ceiling, but the pressure for a rise is now stronger than ever.

Basic problem is the growing shortage of feed grains in dairy and poultry sections, especially in the East. That shortage is not acute now, because farmers are using their home-grown grains, but these will run out soon, and the great stocks of mid-West grain will have to move East if flocks and herds are to be kept alive.

Use Mineral Oil With Discretion

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
LIQUID petroleum, or mineral oil, is used for many purposes, especially in the care and treatment of children. It is a valuable and useful preparation, but it can do harm, and mothers should know of possible dangers.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
It is, of course, used mostly for constipation and is described as a "lubricant" of the bowel. It is unquestionably one of the best cathartics we have, principally because it is not habit forming and it is not necessary to increase the dose from week to week as is the case with most cathartics.

Acts as Foreign Body
This tendency to act as a foreign body is the cause of all the trouble it makes. If a small amount were injected under the skin with a hypodermic syringe it would not be absorbed as many other fats are. It would stay where it was put and remain as a lump and accumulate around it white blood cells and flesh body cells as frequently surround a foreign body until finally they would isolate it and it would practically be an abscess.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. C. B.:—Does excessive gas on the stomach necessarily denote elevated stomach?
Answer: On the contrary patients with ulcer of the stomach seldom complain of gas. Patients with gall-bladder trouble, however, frequently have this symptom.

M. J.:—What are the best remedies for arthritis of the shoulder? Is Vitamin D indicated?
Answer: The best remedies for arthritis of the shoulder are massage and the use of hot and cold water in the form of towel packs. Vitamin D, in my experience, is useless.

Tomorrow's a Lovely Word
By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER TWENTY
THE RIFPLE caused by Jim Ronald's coming to Washington subsided after a week.
On the Saturday night Jim was there, Vernon drove Beth out to the Golden, who had taken a little house with a spare room which they insisted that Beth occupy for the night, and she was all too glad to accept. The circumstances of leaving Andrea and Jim made her cheeks burn, and she tried not to think of it. She could forgive Andrea for wanting to be alone with him, but Andrea's nervousness, coupled with that disturbing memory about Mrs. Seecombe's apartment, was definitely unsettling, and Beth wanted time to think it over.

She was convinced that Andrea would not do anything improper, or if something seemed to her not to be improper, not to be indiscreet. Beth knew her Andrea, but she would rather not see her on Sunday.

She was in bed and asleep when Andrea came to her door after seeing Jim off on Sunday night and, when they met at dinner on Monday night, there was nothing guilty about Andrea.

She mentioned the brief episode on Saturday afternoon, saying, "I was so surprised to see you that I didn't know what I was doing. Eunice does want to meet you and she wants me to bring you over one night soon. Incidentally, she thought that if her husband gets sent to the Pacific, she might want me to come in with her, but I told her I wouldn't leave you."

Beth couldn't resist saying, "Is the bedroom as large as the living room?"
"The apartment is plenty big," Andrea answered calmly, and asked what news of Vernon.

"He's unhappy," Beth informed her. "He can't get into the service because he has some heart ailment, but he wants to do something. He's been trying to get into some work here, but if he doesn't, he's going back to California."
"Has he proposed yet?"
Beth said he hadn't.

"If he did, would you consider it?"
"Might," Beth answered laconically.
Andrea's face went blank with astonishment. "You can't!" she cried. "You promised Jim you'd take care of me."

"So Jim told you, did he? Well, my sweet, I can't see that you need much taking care of."
"But if Jim goes . . ."
"You'd have another beau in a week."
"Maybe," Andrea said. "You don't think much of my feeling for Jim, do you?"

Words of Wisdom
Silence is the perfectest herald of joy; I were but little happy if I could say how much.—Shakespeare.
Today's Horoscope
If this is your natal day, you are progressive, forceful, rigid in your judgments and fond of study. You seldom confide in others. Friends often seek your advice in times of stress. A happy marriage is promised, but you must show more affection toward your mate to insure mutual happiness. Don't start your birthday fussing about minor domestic problems. This afternoon restrain your excitement if there is someone around who is eccentric or stubborn. Later this afternoon write a letter of appreciation to a friend to convey thanks for generous encouragement.

Hints on Etiquette
If you are talking to two people, one of whom you wish to invite to dinner or a party, don't do it in the presence of the other party. This is needless discourtesy. Wait to phone or write the one you wish for a guest, or to invite him or her when no one else is present.

Distribution of $7,908.83 to the schools of Circleville and Pickaway county under the will of William A. Hulise, Jackson township, who died May 12, 1929, was announced November 19, 1938.

Approximately 150 guests attended the card party in the Post room, Memorial hall, sponsored by the Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Forty-nine counties in Ohio were to benefit under the new corn loan, according to Elmer Kruse, state chairman of the AAA committee.

The estate of the late Barton Walters, prominent Republican leader and attorney, was valued at $110,213.62, according to an inventory and appraisal filed in probate court.

that, and Beth, who was as anxious as any girl to be made love to, had yearnings to which she gave no name.
"As a matter of fact," Andrea was saying dreamily, "a married man, away from home, with enough money and just lonely enough, would probably be very good for you. He wouldn't expect anything to come out of it, and he'd be able to show you."

Horoscope for Sunday
You are a prolific reader if you have a birthday today, you glory in profound studies and are interested in scientific pursuits. You are reliable, ambitious and always considerate of others. Your family life will be happy. Try not to be too sensitive to criticism. During the Sunday noon hour, your family may be disturbed by the behavior of a friend. Keep calm, and the flurry of excitement should pass without leaving a bad impression.

JAPANESE-AMERICANS
HUMAN nature seems about the same everywhere, but in war time there is danger of overlooking such facts. Thus many members of the Japanese race who are good Americans now have a rather tough time of it.

Insisting that Japanese Americans are really Americans, one of them makes this appeal to his transplanted fellow-countrymen. He says:

"People are afraid of the unknown. When they do not know us, they are afraid of us. We have found this to be a fact. So many people have commented, 'Why, you are no different from us!' The sooner we become an integral part of a community, the better it will be for all of us. I will, I think, to some extent alleviate one of the postwar problems—the race question."

Another Japanese American makes this sensible statement.

"Above all, we who are at liberty must remember that we are ambassadors for the scores who are still in camps. We of Japanese ancestry are on trial as never before. The thing now is to prove to the general public that it is not a matter of race, that people are the same regardless of their origins, and that those of Japanese ancestry are not different."

This is a very old problem, always more difficult in war time. But it can be solved on both sides by honest men of good will.

MAKING GENERALS PAY
IN PUNISHING German war criminals, if the future is anything like the past, the generals will escape scot free. Many generals have died in battle, and perhaps still more in bed. Hardly any have been executed for misdeeds in time of war.

Almost the only general who was executed for any reason was Ney, the brilliant marshal of Napoleon, who called him "the bravest of the brave." He was shot by the Bourbon king of France for leading an uprising in behalf of Napoleon—in other words, for treason.

Presumably the reason why generals have enjoyed this immunity is that they have been considered mere agents, not responsible for the orders they carried out. It might be a healthy thing if some of the Nazi commanders who have been particularly cruel to the peoples at their mercy should be made to pay the penalty. After all, even if he is a general, there are limits beyond which an honorable man cannot go.

Probably the most difficult art is the art of government. Next to that is carving a skinny chicken for a large family.

These are days when the he-man takes his trusty gun and hikes to the woods for unrationed food.

Push-Button Post-War World
Over Feed Subsidies Ahead

WASHINGTON—I am beginning to worry about the post-war world. It is beset by dangers. Not from enemies. But from over-zealous friends.

Every magazine, every public speech and private conversation has a plan. THE plan. THE PLAN OF ALL PLANS, to slick up this troubled globe. I am beginning to fear that so much polishing will take the starch out of our weary planet and put it among such terrestrial has-beens as the moon.

Do the best we can with the heavenly body on which we temporarily dwell. By all and every means, do the best we can. But don't let's be so unaturally good, so aseptic that we'll shrivel and wither away. This is what happens to all kinds of animal matter, including human flesh, if it is made too sterile.

The post-war world needs a few besetting sins to keep it scratching for life and progress. David Harum's dog, remember, had to have fleas to keep from thinking about being a dog.

In addition to loving one and all, Hottentots included, every instant of the day and night, we who survive this war must be prepared to skim through the air on some advanced type of flying trap. We must use happily electric gadgets yet unknown to man or woman. We must eat dehydrated foods.

We must work with exquisite inspiration with business, agriculture, labor, private enterprise, government radicals, government conservatives, Communists, reformed Fascists, sharecroppers, ballet dancers, South African diamond miners, East Indian snake charmers, war veterans, dress designers, radio commentators, spiteful columnists, jobless generals, fleetless admirals, cause-less ladies, unneighborly good neighbors, dollar-a-year men minus the dollar, Asiatic immigrants and millions of unemployed.

HULL'S HISTORIC TALK

WASHINGTON — Secretary Hull's historic appearance before congress to report on his mission to Moscow was unanimously considered helpful, especially by a group of senators who long ago urged Hull to be more cooperative with the senate. They believe some of the mistakes of the war might have been avoided had there been more cooperation in the past.

Leader of this group is far-sighted Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, who, nearly three years ago, saw what might be coming and introduced a resolution—February, 1941—calling upon Secretary Hull to give the senate the true picture of the international situation, especially in the Far East.

But Wiley's resolution was frowned upon by the State department, and got nowhere. Could Hull have been persuaded to report to the senate then presumably he would have included the warning of U. S. Ambassador Grew, who had told Hull, in January, 1941, that the Japs were ready for war and that an attack could be expected anytime.

Senate leaders are confident that, if they had had close cooperation with Secretary Hull, they could have persuaded congress — even senate isolationists — to vote more money for planes, and could have kept the nation much more on the alert. Thus, Pearl Harbor might not have happened.

"With knowledge of Grew's report," says Senator Wiley, "we would not have been caught with our suspenders off. With more cooperation between Hull and the senate, we might now be one year ahead in the Pacific. Hull is making a good beginning, but it is three years late. Let's hope such cooperation will be our constant practice in the future."

KITCHEN QUEENS ABDICATE

Henry Wallace is beginning to wonder if women war workers will ever go back to their kitchens. His doubts came like a flash during a talk he was giving to a group of war workers at the White Motors plant in Cleveland.

He thought the women in overalls were particularly intrigued by the passage of his speech describing the effect which new inventions would have on post-war households. Waxing enthusiastic, he described the new ice-boxes, heating equipment, maybe even automatic diaper-changers.

Then he came to the punch line. "These things will all be waiting for you women when you go back into the home."

Instead of cheering, the feminine audience groaned. Wallace suddenly added—"if you want to go back!"

The women broke into loud cheers.

CORN-PRICE WAR

The corn war is on again—to determine whether to let the price rise above present ceilings. Last Summer's battle on the same issue was settled by holding the ceiling, but the pressure for a rise is now stronger than ever.

Basic problem is the growing shortage of feed grains in dairy and poultry sections, especially in the East. That shortage is not acute now, because farmers are using their home-grown grains, but these will run out soon, and the great stocks of mid-West grain will have to move East if flocks and herds are to be kept alive.

As usual, agricultural officials are lined (Continued on Page Eight)

Again liquid petrolatum is used as a daily bath-cleansing of the skin of infants. In most cases it does no harm, but there have been several cases of skin irritation reported from its use. Especially is this likely to occur when the oil is rubbed into the skin vigorously so that it penetrates the skin follicles.

Effort at Thoroughness

Many mothers do this under the conscientious idea that they must be thorough. As a matter of fact we are all in North America likely to be too thorough about the cleanliness of our skin. A baby whose skin is washed twice a week with soap and water will be perfectly clean and much more likely to have a healthy and functioning skin than a baby who is oiled every day.

Not long ago a medical friend of mine had a skin eruption and put the time honored ointment of zinc oxide on it. Instead of soothing it proved very irritating. And no wonder because in the old days ointment of zinc oxide was made with benzoated lard for a base, but in the ninth revision of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia soft petrolatum was substituted. Lard is a fat, petrolatum is a methane hydrocarbon.

Dr. Zahorsky, a well known children's specialist, writes: "Petrolatum is a foreign body to be used only as an emollient on the second skin and like all foreign matter should be removed with soap and water."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. C. B.—Does excessive gas on the stomach necessarily denote ulcerated stomach?

Answer: On the contrary patients with ulcer of the stomach seldom complain of gas. Patients with gall-bladder trouble, however, frequently have this symptom.

M. J.—What are the best remedies for arthritis of the shoulder? Is Vitamin D indicated?

Answer: The best remedies for arthritis of the shoulder are massage and the use of hot and cold water in the form of towel packs. Vitamin D, in my experience, is useless.

For Saturday, November 20

THE CONFIGURATIONS of this day must be interpreted as generally adverse, with a sudden upheaval or disintegration that may prove upsetting to all sorts of holdings and create havoc or estrangements, either in business or private associations. There may be unpredictable and devastating events, which are likely to be bungled or aggravated by errors of judgment, snap decisions, anger, trickery and fraud. With these shrewdly handled there may be benefits.

It If Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a disruptive and upsetting, time with all the interests and plans suddenly and unpredictably devastated. There may be a general reversal or turning of the tide into dangerous or haphazard channels. Such entanglements, or spading up may be rendered more difficult by mistakes, ill-considered judgments or unwise decisions, inciting to separations or estrangements all along the line. With emotionalism, nervous tension and impetuosity held in restraint there may be a chance of gain, but shun treachery, fraud and haste especially with writings or contracts. Deal with responsible groups.

A child born on this day may be reckless, changeable, erratic and emotionally impetuous thereby inviting adverse conditions or sudden smashes.

CHAPTER TWENTY

THE RIDDLE caused by Jim Ronald's coming to Washington subsided after a week.

On the Saturday night Jim was there, Vernon drove Beth out to the Golden, who had taken a little house with a spare room which they insisted that Beth occupy for the night, and she was all too glad to accept. The circumstances of leaving Andrea and Jim made her cheeks burn, and she tried not to think of it. She could forgive Andrea for wanting to be alone with him, but Andrea's nervousness, coupled with that disturbing memory about Mrs. Secombe's apartment, was definitely unsettling, and Beth wanted time to think it over.

She was convinced that Andrea would not do anything improper, or if something seemed to her not to be improper, not to be indiscreet. Beth knew her Andrea, but she would rather not see her on Sunday.

She was in bed and asleep when Andrea came to her door after seeing Jim off on Sunday night and, when they met at dinner on Monday night, there was nothing guilty about Andrea.

She mentioned the brief episode on Saturday afternoon, saying, "I was so surprised to see you that I didn't know what I was doing. Eunice does want to meet you and she wants me to bring you over one night soon. Incidentally, she thought that if her husband gets sent to the Pacific, she might want me to come in with her, but I told her I wouldn't leave you."

Beth couldn't resist saying, "Is the bedroom as large as the living room?"

"The apartment is plenty big," Andrea answered calmly, and asked what news of Vernon.

"He's unhappy," Beth informed her. "He can't get into the service because he has some heart ailment, but he wants to do something. He's been trying to get into some work here, but if he doesn't, he's going back to California."

"Has he proposed yet?" "Beth said he hadn't."

"If he did, would you consider it?" "Might," Beth answered laconically.

Andrea's face went blank with astonishment. "You can't!" she cried. "You promised Jim you'd take care of me."

"So Jim told you, did he? Well, my sweet, I can't see that you need much taking care of."

"But Jim goes..." "You'd have another beau in a week."

"Maybe," Andrea said. "You don't think much of my feeling for Jim, do you?"

They were having dinner, Beth put her napkin down and rose. "Look, Andy, forgive me, but sometimes I get so sick of you and Jim. When Jim's with me, he makes me feel like he's handing you to me all wrapped up in cotton wool with a 'Fragile' label on the box. And you're the same way. Don't go here, Beth, and don't go there, because I need you. What about me? Am I not supposed to have any life except as big sister to you two?"

This outburst had the effect of making Andrea wonder if Beth was quite well.

Following Beth up to her room, she closed the door gently behind them, and spoke, "The trouble with you, Beth, is that you don't lead a normal girl's existence. Open up the shutters and let in a little light. Start thinking your age, not like an old maid of 50. I think this Vernon-business has you upset. You're not in love with him, but you think you ought to be because he's a nice, steady boy. Try and meet some other men, married men, anything to get out of this rut. Sure, you're sick of Jim and me, that's because you wish you had somebody as I have Jim."

"Married men are not my dish."

"So what? You don't have to think of marriage the minute you meet a man, do you? Just get somebody who'll take you and see a few bright lights. Bridge with the girls! Knitting! Movies with the girls! Reading good books! You can do that when you're 50. Right now you're in Washington, where things are going on. Grab yourself a little of it."

"How would you recommend I go about it? An ad in the paper, perhaps? Or should I crash a state reception?"

"Cultivate useful people like little Harry Coles. I'll bet there are dozens right in your office. All you have to do is eye one of them and tell him his necktie is beautiful."

"And then I suppose he rolls around here at 7 o'clock in a Cadillac and takes me to the Brazilian ambassador's, where I dazzle everybody in my fur coat?" And the next day all the columns were full about the beautiful Miss Kinnan? From there on, my career is made socially."

Even Beth had to laugh at herself. But she wasn't laughing at her friend, who had hit the nail on the head in matters concerning Vernon.

Beth would always like him, but it was true that it only made her unhappy to wish she could feel one of the tender emotions about him. She sometimes wished that Vernon would sweep her off her feet. A chaste kiss at the door occasionally was hardly promising of

Presbyterian Women • Hear Missionary Talk

South American Work Outlined By Pastor

In a splendid talk based on his experience during 20 years as a missionary in South America, the Rev. Frank J. Batterson of Circleville appeared as guest speaker Friday at the meeting of the Women's Social club of the Presbyterian church. He discussed informally the geography, customs and missionary work of the country and answered questions at the close of his talk. He stressed the need in the United States of knowledge of the Spanish language in carrying out the 'good neighbor policy', saying that it was the language spoken in nine of the 10 republics of South America, the exception being Uruguay. In this country Portuguese is spoken, a language that may be understood by Spanish speaking people, through its great similarity.

More than 40 members and guests were present, the meeting being opened by Miss Clara Southward, president, who read "Footpath to Peace" by Henry Van Dyke as the first number of the program.

Mrs. George Barnes, secretary, and Mrs. Everett Stocklen, treasurer, reported. It was decided to begin the meetings at 7:30 p. m. instead of 8. It was agreed that the society should purchase flowers for one Sunday morning service in honor of the boys and girls of the church now in the service of their country.

Miss Mary Walters as chairman presented the program based on Spanish background. Mrs. Robert Goodchild and Shirley Blake opened the entertainment with a piano duet, "Spanish Dance." The entertainment was concluded with a piano solo, "Spanish Gardens," by Miss Blake.

Light refreshments were served from a tea table centered with an arrangement of tall yellow candles in squat silver holders. Mrs. William Foreman and Mrs. Channing Vrebone presided at the silver coffee and tea services. Party appointments of yellow and green were used on the table.

Mrs. D. A. Yates was chairman of the hospitality committee with Mrs. Hulse Hays as co-chairman. Others on the committee were Mrs. E. O. Crites, Mrs. Vrebone, Mrs. Lincoln Mader, Miss Virginia Marion, Mrs. Frank Marion, Mrs. A. D. Honesty in All Things

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 21 is Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13, Luke 19:10-12, 45, 46, the Golden Text being Exodus 20:15, "Thou shalt not steal.")

THOU SHALT not steal. What commandment is more often violated than this? We may not steal our neighbor's money, silver, or other portable property, but we may take his good name; we may cheat him in a business deal, charge him too much for something of ours he wishes to buy, even cheat him at some game we are playing merely for fun.

In our civilization property rights are very important. They are fundamental, and those who take away what is ours, are doing us a wrong. They are also doing themselves a wrong, as their characters suffer when they break this commandment. We have a right to protect our property, whatever it may be, but that does not mean that we shouldn't share what we have with others who have nothing. No follower of Jesus could possibly think that.

"Thou shalt not defraud thy neighbor, neither rob him; the wages of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night until the morning." We talked about this verse in a recent lesson so need say no more about it here.

Story of Zacchaeus

Now we pass to the New Testament story of Zacchaeus, the little man who was a tax collector for the Romans and so despised by his countrymen. He was the chief publican and rich.

Jesus arrived at Jericho, which is situated far below the sea level and was considered a very wicked city. The fame of Jesus went and he reached the city and people were anxious to see him. He had heard about Zacchaeus, being very short, and fearing that he would miss the sight of the Lord, climbed a sycamore tree and looked down from his branch as Jesus came near.

When Jesus came to the place where Zacchaeus was, he looked up and saw him and said, "Zacchaeus, make haste, and come down; for to day I must abide at thy house."

Imagine Zacchaeus' excitement! And how honored he must have felt! He made haste to come down and received his Master joyfully. Others were not so pleased, and said to one another that "He was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner."

Jesus went home with Zacchaeus and Zacchaeus was so moved that he stood up and said, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore to him fourfold."

Zacchaeus had been converted in the course of the conversation he had had with Jesus. He had suffered a real change of heart. He probably had known of the dislike with which he was regarded by loyal Jews. He not only worked for the Romans, but he may have cheated his neighbors by making them pay more taxes than was right, extorting money from them. Now he was convicted of his wrongdoing by his own conscience. He saw himself as the cheat and sinner he was, and he started right then to make amends. He would give half his wealth away. The law required him to give back only one-fifth of what he had stolen by over taxing, but he preferred to treat the matter as plain and simple theft, and make the fullest possible measure of amends.

Zacchaeus Is Saved

"And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." This beautiful story is one of the happy days in Jesus' life on earth. He had saved a soul, made it whole again.

Some time after this incident, Jesus, being now in Jerusalem, went to the temple. Once He had cleared the money changers out of the outer court where they were selling sacrifices to the people. They were back again, and Luke tells us that "He went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought; saying unto them, It is written, My house is the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."

By this action Jesus meant to show the multitudes around Him in a way they could not mistake, that the holy house was already desecrated by the intrusion of this bargaining, and made a place no better than a large bazaar. They were profaning their temple not only by this buying and selling, but by the spirit they manifested. The religious decay of the nation grieved Him, for He saw that a mere outward service, an observance of the forms and ceremonies without a change of heart, were leading the Jewish religion to decay and ultimate ruin.

Union Thanksgiving Services Arranged For Wednesday Night

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening at St. Philip's church with the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy, of the First Presbyterian church, speaking on "Thanksgiving and Tragedy."

The program will open with the prelude, "Hymn of Thanks," followed by processional hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People, Come." Invocation will be offered by the Rev. J. E. Huston, of the United Brethren church, psalter by the Rev. Ross Hayslip, Church of Christ in Christian Union, scripture reading by the Rev. F. J. Batterson, of the Mt. Pleasant church, the anthem, "I Will Magnify Thee," prayer by the Rev. Clarence Swearingen, of the First Methodist church, the hymn, "God Bless Our Native Land," the sermon, benediction, recessional and postlude.

Union Thanksgiving services are becoming increasingly popular in Circleville and it is anticipated that a large congregation will be present for the program Wednesday evening.

"LIQUOR AND THE WAR" TO BE ADDRESS TOPIC

"Liquor and the War" will be the subject of an address to be delivered Monday evening by Doctor D. Leigh Colvin, New York City, at the First U. B. church, East Main street. The program starts at 7:30.

Doctor Colvin was a captain in the World War, especially assigned to the duty of building morale among the soldiers. He is one of the best informed men on the liquor problem, and the author of the book "History of Prohibition in the United States."

His appearance in this city is a part of a general plan to inform the public concerning liquor conditions surrounding the army camps and in war industries, in order that both soldiers and civilians may be protected from exploitation by gambling, liquor and vice interests.

Local "dry" leaders point out that a spontaneous demand for war-time Prohibition has arisen which has shown itself in resolutions passed by every national religious body which has met during 1942.

The speech of Dr. Colvin will be the first of a series of evangelistic services continuing each evening, except Saturday, until December 5. The series will be in the charge of Rev. Sylvester Sanford, of Galesburg, Ill., widely known evangelist, who will not only speak, but will sing and provide instrumental music.

Presbyterian Women • Hear Missionary Talk

South American Work Outlined
By Pastor

In a splendid talk based on his experience during 20 years as a missionary in South America, the Rev. Frank J. Batterson of Circleville appeared as guest speaker Friday at the meeting of the Women's Social club of the Presbyterian church. He discussed informally the geography, customs and missionary work of the country and answered questions at the close of his talk. He stressed the need in the United States of knowledge of the Spanish language in carrying out the 'good neighbor policy,' saying that it was the language spoken in nine of the 10 republics of South America, the exception being Uruguay. In this country Portuguese is spoken, a language that may be understood by Spanish speaking people, through its great similarity.

More than 40 members and guests were present, the meeting being opened by Miss Clara Southard, president, who read "Footpath to Peace" by Henry Van Dyke as the first number of the program.

Mrs. George Barnes, secretary, and Mrs. Everett Stocklen, treasurer, reported. It was decided to begin the meetings at 7:30 p. m. instead of 8. It was agreed that the society should purchase flowers for one Sunday morning service in honor of the boys and girls of the church now in the service of their country.

Miss Mary Walters as chairman presented the program based on Spanish background. Mrs. Robert Goodchild and Shirley Blake opened the entertainment with a piano duet, "Spanish Dance." The entertainment was concluded with a piano solo, "Spanish Gardens," by Miss Blake.

Light refreshments were served from a tea table centered with an arrangement of tall yellow candles in squat silver holders. Mrs. William Foreman and Mrs. Channing Foreman presided at the silver coffee and tea services. Party appointments of yellow and green were used on the table.

Mrs. D. A. Yates was chairman of the hospitality committee with Mrs. Hulse Hays as co-chairman. Others on the committee were Mrs. E. O. At the close of the meeting a salad course was served by Mrs. Drake and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Maude Tarbill, Mrs. Lola Ater and Mrs. Frances Betts. The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Stinson with the customary 10-cent gift exchange. Mrs. Marie McGhee and Mrs. Ruth Buck are program committee members for December.

Honesty in All Things

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By-NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 21 is Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13, Luke 19:1-10, 45, 48, the Golden Text being Exodus 20:15, "Thou shalt not steal.")

THOU SHALT not steal. What commandment is more often violated than this? We may not steal our neighbor's money, silver, or other portable property, but we may take his good name; we may cheat him in a business deal, charge him too much for something of ours he wishes to buy, even cheat him at some game we are playing merely for fun.

In our civilization property rights are very important. They are fundamental, and those who take away what is ours, are doing us a wrong. They are also doing themselves a wrong, as their characters suffer when they break this commandment. We have a right to protect our property, whatever it may be, but this does not mean that we shouldn't share what we have with others who have nothing. No follower of Jesus could possibly think that.

"Thou shalt not defraud thy neighbor, neither rob him; the wages of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night until the morning." We talked about this verse in a recent lesson so need say no more about it here.

Story of Zacchaeus
Now we pass to the New Testament story of Zacchaeus, the little man who was a tax collector for the Romans and so despised by his countrymen. He was the chief publican and rich.

Jesus arrived at Jericho, which is situated far below the sea level and was considered a very wicked city. The fame of Jesus must have reached the city and people were anxious to see this Man they had heard about. Zacchaeus, being very short, and fearing that he would miss the sight of the Lord, climbed a sycamore tree and looked down from his branch as Jesus came near.

When Jesus came to the place where Zacchaeus was, He looked up and saw him and said, "Zacchaeus, make haste, and come down; for to day I must abide at thy house."

Imagine Zacchaeus' excitement and how honored he must have felt! He made haste to come down and received his Master joyfully. Others were not so pleased, and said to one another that "He was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner."

Jesus went home with Zacchaeus and Zacchaeus was so moved that he stood up and said, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore to him fourfold."

Zacchaeus had been converted in the course of the conversation he had had with Jesus. He had suffered a real change of heart. He probably had known of the dislike with which he was regarded by the Romans, but he may have cheated his neighbors by making them pay more taxes than was right, extorting money from them. Now he was convicted of his wrongdoing by his own conscience. He saw himself as the cheat and sinner he was, and he started right then to make amends. He would give half his wealth away. The law required him to give back only one-fifth of what he had stolen by overtaxing, but he preferred to treat the matter as plain and simple theft, and make the fullest possible measure of amends.

Zacchaeus Is Saved
"And Jesus said unto him, This day salvation is come to this house, forsomuch as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." This beautiful story is one of the happy days in Jesus' life on earth. He had saved a soul, made it whole again.

Some time after this incident, Jesus, being now in Jerusalem, went to the temple. Once He had cleared the money changers out of the outer court where they were selling sacrifices to the people. They were back again, and Luke tells us that "He went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought; saying unto them, It is written, My house is the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."

By this action Jesus meant to show the multitudes around Him in a way they could not mistake, that the holy house was already desecrated by the intrusion of this bargaining, and made a place no better than a large bazaar. They were profaning their temple not only by this buying and selling, but by the spirit they manifested.

The religious decay of the nation grieved Him, for He saw that a mere outward service, an observation of the forms and ceremonies without a change of heart, were leading the Jewish religion to decay and ultimate ruin.

Union Thanksgiving Services Arranged For Wednesday Night

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening at St. Philip's church with the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy, of the First Presbyterian church, speaking on "Thanksgiving and Tragedy."

The program will open with the prelude, "Hymn of Thanks," followed by processional hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People, Come." Invocation will be offered by the Rev. J. E. Huston, of the United Brethren church, psalter by the Rev. Ross Hayslip, Church of Christ in Christian Union, scripture reading by the Rev. F. J. Batterson, of the Mt. Pleasant church, the anthem, "I Will Magnify Thee," prayer by the Rev. Clarence Swearingen, of the First Methodist church, the hymn, "God Bless Our Native Land," the sermon, benediction, recessional and postlude.

Union Thanksgiving services are becoming increasingly popular in Circleville and it is anticipated that a large congregation will be present for the program Wednesday evening.

Local "dry" leaders point out that a spontaneous demand for war-time Prohibition has arisen which has shown itself in resolutions passed by every national legislative body which has met during 1942.

The speech of Dr. Colvin will be the first of a series of evangelistic services continuing each evening, except Saturday, until December 5. The series will be in the charge of Rev. Sylvester Sanford, of Galesburg, Ill., widely known evangelist, who will not only speak, but will sing and provide instrumental music.

MONROE DOWNS DABBY
Monroe township basketball team won over Darby township with a score of 32-24 in the first team game played Friday at Derby. Scores in the second team game were Monroe 21 and Darby 14.
Although Tom Lombardo was listed as the starting quarterback for Army, Glenn Davis, who has been ineligible for ten days, was expected to get into action.
WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 20—Army was favored over Brown today as the Cadets, after concentrating on passing attacks all week, faced off against the Bruins in an effort to clip the latter's five-game winning streak.
Mentally pointing for the game with Navy next week, Army was expected to "pour it on" against Brown in an effort to sharpen up the West Point drive as much as possible.
The Irish were at full strength for their ninth game with the reliable Jim Mello, Julie Rykovich, Creighton Miller and Johnny Lujack set to gallop. Notre Dame's powerhouse line is intact from end to end. That spells trouble for any coach's team and today Faurot needs the aspirin.

UNDERDOG OHIO STATE TANGLES WITH MICHIGAN

Wolverines Out To Win First Big Ten Title In Ten Years

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 20—An underdog Ohio State eleven to day tangles with a powerful Michigan contingent in the final game of the 1943 season with at least a share of the Big Ten championship awaiting the Wolverines if they win.
At present, the Wolverine and Purdue are tied for the Big Ten lead with five victories apiece and while Michigan is seeking its sixth straight triumph before an estimated 50,000 the Boilermakers will be doing the same against Indiana.
With the squad in perfect condition, with the exception of Elmer "Crazy Legs" Hirsch, the Wolverines will be out to win the first Big Ten title since 1933. Hirsch, regular left halfback and possible all-American, has a shoulder injury that refuses to respond to treatment.
The Bucks, riddled with injury throughout the season, are far from being in perfect condition. Bill Willis, star tackle, Gordon Appleby, center, and Dean Senebauger, halfback, are hurt in one place or another.
State will rest its hopes on Senbauger and Ernie Parks, the sometimes brilliant running halfback. They will bear the brunt of the attack against Michigan's Paul Davis and Bobby McQuay sharing the passing assignment.
State has won three of its eight games this fall, the last two in row from Pittsburgh and Illinois while the Wolverine record shows wins and one loss—that to the nation's No. 1 gridiron team, Notre Dame.
Although with Hirsch playing under a handicap, if he plays Michigan's attack may be helped. On the defense, the Wolverines are much stronger than the Bucks.
The Bucks have not displayed much defensive power during the season and in four conference games have surrendered an average of 283 yards by rushing and passing to their opponents.
Unless the Bucks reach a new high in this department they will definitely be outscored by the Wolverines for the first time since 1940.
The probable starting lineup:
Ohio State Michigan

WISER GUYS ROV HEADS AFTER BEAU VICTOR
NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Not wise guys, including your correspondent are baring their heads in chagrin and belated admiration today to a dusky little Georgian former shoe-shine boy Beau Jack.
For last night the alert, ha-headed little fellow came back to do what only one man had before in ring history had done when he took a 15-round decision from Philadelphia's Bob Montgomery to regain his title as lightweight champion of the world.
Prior to the fight Jack was a three-to-one underdog. But once the contest got underway it was the story of a fight right up to the jaw, chest, the head, and about every place that is legal—and not much else. Beau Jack was the windmill of old and those fast punches didn't desert him.
Both fighters started cagey. Jack seemed to adopt what might be termed "disengaging action" letting Montgomery come and continually then catching him with neat right uppercuts. It was such a punch that nearly finished the ex-champ from the Friar City in the thirteenth when he was obviously staggered by two terrific rights to the jaw.
The most interesting thing about the fight and Beau Jack a fighter was his obvious character in style. What has finished him too early before was a wild, windy start after which he was usually too exhausted to be a really alert slugger.
Last night he showed that months since he dropped the very same title he regained last night to the very same Montgomery. He was more cautious, more restrained. He felt out his opponent, letting him do the rushing, the weaving down. Thus when the time was ripe to slip in those snake-punches he had the reserve power to put behind them that count when it should.

SETTLE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP THIS SATURDAY

Dick Todd

Julius Rykovich

Paul Limont

BEFORE A CAPACITY CROWD AT SOUTH BEND this Saturday, Notre Dame and the Iowa Naval Cadets meet on the grid to settle the national football championship. Both teams have won eight games without loss. Two of the Irish stars are End Paul Limont, and Julius Rykovich, halfback. Seahawk stars are Jimmy Smith, former Illinois halfback, and Dick Todd, former Texas A. & M. and later a Washington Redskins backfield star. Notre Dame will be the favorite in this clash. 50,000 GATHER FOR IRISH AND HAWKS BATTLE

Two Unbeaten And Untied Teams Square Off In Title Tilt

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 20—The two unbeaten and untied eleven of Notre Dame and Iowa Pre-flight school squared off today before 50,000 spectators with the nation's collegiate football championship at stake.

As in their eight other games this season, the Irish were favorites to whip the speedy, tricky Seahawks who like to cross up the opposition with laterals behind scrimmage and who feature a powerful ground attack.

The one dark cloud in the Pre-flight team's chances of coming out ahead was the inability of Halfback Frank Maznicki to participate in proceedings. The former Boston college and Chicago Bears professional star came along from Iowa City, but it looked like it would be just for the ride.

He suffered a knee injury in the Camp Grant game last week that probably will keep him on the bench most of the afternoon. He was replaced by Bud Higgins, a former Minnesota bundle of dynamite. The Hawks will feel Maznicki's loss keenly, despite Higgins' ability. Frank is always good for that extra yard or three that means the difference between kicking and a first down. His battering proclivities have played havoc with all the lines the Hawks have bumped into this season.

Coach Don Faurot, the former Missouri magician, has a wealth of reserve strength on which to fall back. He has Dick Todd, Texas A. & M. all-American and Washington Redskins halfback; Vince Banonis, all-American center at Detroit, and Art Guepe, shifty all-American quarterback of Marquette, to rush into any breach.

The Irish were at full strength for their ninth game with the reliable Jim Mello, Julie Rykovich, Creighton Miller and Johnny Lujack set to gallop. Notre Dame's powerhouse line is intact from end to end. That spells trouble for any coach's team and today Faurot needs the aspirin.

RAYMOND CLAPPER

The record letter response to his recent talks on the devastating effects of inflation on the average American pocketbook has caused Raymond Clapper, ace reporter, heard over Mutual Mondays and Thursdays at 9 p. m. to speak on the question "Will We Be Able to Hold the Little Steel Formula?" on November 22.

Thursday, November 25, on Thanksgiving Day, Clapper will speak on "How Your Boys Are Spending Thanksgiving At The Front." During his recent trip abroad, the noted news commentator had the opportunity of talking informally with our fighting men in the front lines. He made a special effort to discuss with them their personal interests and the topics most important to them.

SUSANNA FOSTER

Susanna Foster, Hollywood's new singing star, has just been added to the parade of stars on the two-hour Thanksgiving show to be heard Thursday, November 25, from 3 to 5 p. m. over the full Columbia network. The gala holiday show will salute America's fighting men and their families at home.

As previously announced, the following guest stars will appear on the Thanksgiving show: Robert Young, who will m. c. the broadcast, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Lena Horne, Jose Iturbi, Alan Reed, better known as "Flagstaff Openhaw," Ginny Simms, the Pied Pipers, Jack Douglas, Alvin Roy, Jimmy Newell, and the "Swing Wing," seven service men musicians from the Santa Ana, California, Army Air Base band. Ken Carpenter will act as announcer on the two-hour program.

CHARLIE MCCARTHY

Dorothy Lamour, Hedy Lamarr, Lana Turner and the host of other feminine stars who've frequently quickened the pulse of Charlie McCarthy but never captured his heart, have been forsaken by the bemoaned youngster for a young lady, aged 14, named Jane Powell. Jane is not only the apple of Charlie's eye, but also his own discovery. The teen-aged songstress from Portland, Oregon made a surprise appearance on Edgar

County's Annual Public Health Seal Campaign Opens Monday

GOAL OF $1,800 DECIDED FOR COUNTY DRIVE

Mrs. George L. Crites Once More Designated To Act As Director

WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Some Of National Funds To Be Used For First Time In Far Lands

Annual campaign of the Pickaway county Public Health and Tuberculosis association with sale of $1,800 in Christmas seals as its objective gets under way Monday in Circleville and throughout the county.

Letters have been prepared for mailing to patrons of the association, which has been carrying on its work in the county for many years.

The Circleville campaign is headed by Mrs. George L. Crites, who has served as chairman for the last several years. George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, is president of the tuberculosis and Health association.

In voicing an appeal for support of the campaign, the local association issued the following statement:

War On Tuberculosis

"Tuberculosis is far from being under control in the United States. Since 1904 the disease has moved from first cause of death to seventh, and the death rate has been cut 75 percent. In spite of this, tuberculosis killed 60,000 people in this country last year and it is still the greatest disease killer of persons between 15 and 45. To these tragic figures is added the fact that this country is now threatened by a wartime rise in tuberculosis.

"War, with its overwork, strain, anxiety, and overcrowded living and working conditions, creates conditions which foster breakdowns with tuberculosis and its spread from the sick to the well. The whole country faces the need of intensified tuberculosis control programs.

Big Annual Loss

"One of the most important weapons in the war against tuberculosis is the X-ray. A chest X-ray is a part of the medical examination of all men before induction into military service. This step protects our armed forces from tuberculosis, which in World War I cost our government approximately a billion dollars in compensation, vocational training, insurance, and hospitalization for disabled veterans.

"The 1945 Christmas Seal will go on sale November 22 as the means of raising funds to support the work of the 88-county-wide tuberculosis and health associations in Ohio affiliated with the Ohio Public Health Association. The Seal Sale is held in conjunction with the nationwide sale and will continue until Christmas.

"This year, for the first time, the Seal of the American tuberculosis associations is being used by the national tuberculosis organizations of England, Canada, Mexico and Brazil to raise funds for their respective campaigns against the disease. The use of the identical Christmas Seal by five of the United Nations is particularly significant in the face of the wartime rise in tuberculosis that is occurring in many parts of the world."

JOHN MILLER, 90, DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John Miller, 90, died Friday at 6:20 a. m. at his home in Clearcreek township after an illness of seven weeks. Surviving in addition to the widow, Elizabeth Levan Miller, are three children, Mrs. Stella Griffith, Clytus and John C. Miller of Stoutsville; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Kling, Chillicothe, six grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Emmett Frazier and the Rev. Wayne Baxter Monday at 1 p. m. at the Miller home, with burial at Maple Hill cemetery in charge of Crites and Van Cleave. Friends may call at the home until the hour of services.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

up on one side, OPA on the other. Here is the line-up:

Howard R. Tolley, chief of the bureau of agriculture economics, says flatly that the price of corn must go up, so that corn-hog farmers will find it more profitable to sell their corn than to feed it to hogs.

J. B. HUTON, assistant Director of the Food Production Administration, takes the same view as Tolley, and has more to say about the decision as head of an action agency.

RICHARD GILBERT, OPA economist, says, "The price of corn will go up over my dead body." He contends a price increase would let down the bars to a boost in the price of living all along the line.

ECONOMIC STABILIZER VINCENSON has made no commitment, but is known to be opposed. He fears that an increase for corn would increase prices of chicken feed and dairy feed and make things tough for all except corn farmers.

NOTE: Real trouble, according to many officials, is that hog farmer Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard long delayed in helping to put a ceiling price on hogs, and that even now the ceiling price on hogs is so profitable that hog farmers feed their corn at home rather than sell it.

"CONGRESSWOMAN" CLAIRE HOFFMAN

Broad-gauged young Representative Will Rogers, Jr., of California gets a lot of correspondence because of his aggressive stand on international issues, and takes it in his stride. However, a recent letter left him flabbergasted—though not half as flabbergasted as one of Rogers' two-fisted GOP colleagues, Representative Claire Hoffman, Michigan anti-New Dealer, might have been.

"I disagree with your views on foreign policies," the letter read, "because you are too much of an internationalist, like Vice-President Wallace. Thank God we still have some members of Congress with backbone enough to speak out for the other side, including two fine Congresswomen, Clare Boot Luce and Claire Hoffman."

STENOGRAPHER DELAYS BILL

The delay in Senate action on the Magnus bill to repeal the Chinese Exclusion Act was not due to subversive influences, but to a shortage of manpower—or rather, woman-power.

Senator Charles O. Andrews of Florida, chairman of the Immigration sub-committee which held hearings on the bill, broke down under questioning by Capital newsmen and admitted:

"We would have had that legislation out of committee but for some personnel trouble. We hired a new stenographer recently and she got the testimony at the hearings all balled up."

FORREST SMITH SPEAKER FOR KIWANIS MEET

Forrest F. Smith, Columbus lawyer, and at present assistant prosecuting attorney for Franklin county, will speak on "Post-war Planning and The Service Club" at the meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening.

Mr. Smith is a former Assistant United States district attorney for the Southern District of Ohio; past president of the Northern Columbus Kiwanis Club; past lieutenant governor of the Fifth Division of the Ohio Kiwanis District and a former chairman of the district committee on Kiwanis Education. He has long been active in civic and public affairs in Columbus and has many friends in Circleville and Pickaway county.

Real Estate Boards in Cleveland ... Onslow was on the Democratic payroll for years, helping Mike Strauss of the department of the Interior to write speeches and handle public relations for Ickes. Now he is sold on Bricker ... Military observers consider the German invasion of Leros Island serious. Its effect on neutral Turkey is bad and, if the Germans regain control of the island, it would be a thorn in any Allied invasion of the Balkans across the Aegean ... OPA will soon hoist prices for essential war commodities being produced by small war contractors. This is to compensate the contractors for higher labor costs ... It looks as if there were enough House members from coal and oil regions to put across the Dimsey-Johnson bill giving Ickes complete control over coal and oil. How the coal and oil boys hate OPA and love "Honest Harold" is really something!!!

ASHVILLE

The Ashville P-T. A. meeting Thursday was fairly well attended, other community activities preventing several from being present. An excellent talk on "Things for Which to be Thankful" was given by Lieut. Jung of the Lockbourne Air Base. An instrumental trio composed of Violet McDowell, Anne Shauk, and Helen Irwin presented two numbers. They were accompanied on the piano by Ellen Johnson. The treasurer's report showed a profit of $168.27 from the recent P-T. A. carnival, and a balance on hand of $285.95. The December meeting will be held on December 16th at 8:00 P. M., and it is hoped that other community organizations can keep this date open as an interesting program is being prepared by the music department.

Lieut. and Mrs. Jung and family were dinner guests of Rev. and Mrs. Fudge Thursday evening.

Petty Officer, 2nd class, and Mrs. Junior Purcell announce the birth of a son Friday, November 19 at Jacksonville, Florida. Mrs. Purcell is the former Velma Peters, a graduate of Jackson township High School. Junior Purcell, son of Mrs. T. W. Purcell, has been stationed at Jacksonville for the past two years.

Ashville Mrs. Marianne Osborne, who has been visiting her husband in San Angelo, Texas for the past two weeks, expects to leave Dallas, Texas via American Airlines for the return trip on Tuesday, November 23rd.

Ashville Paul Pettibone, at home after eight weeks' training at the Great Lakes Naval Base, expects to be sent to another training school upon his return. He reports that his "navy" day begins at 6:00 A. M. with a half-hour of calisthenics, followed by class-room studies, swimming, use of small firearms, first-aid, and numerous other activities. Paul's excellent appearance is testimony to the fine food and training which he is receiving; incidentally, Paul gained twenty-five pounds during his "boot" training.

SAILOR GETS DIVORCE Melvin J. Kneec was granted a divorce from Bessie J. Kneec in common pleas court, Thursday by Judge Meeker Terwilliger on grounds of gross neglect of duty. He also gained custody of the three year old daughter, Corina Jean, who was placed in the care of his mother, Lovie Kneec, Williamsport. Kneec is now serving in the Navy.

"One of the most important weapons in the war against tuberculosis is the X-ray. A chest X-ray is a part of the medical examination of all men before induction into military service. This step protects our armed forces from tuberculosis, which in World War I cost our government approximately a billion dollars in compensation, vocational training, insurance, and hospitalization for disabled veterans.

"The 1943 Christmas Seal will go on sale November 22 as the means of raising funds to support the work of the 88-county-wide tuberculosis and health associations in Ohio affiliated with the Ohio Public Health Association. The Seal Sale is held in conjunction with the nationwide sale and will continue until Christmas.

"This year, for the first time, the Seal of the American tuberculosis associations is being used by the national tuberculosis organizations of England, Canada, Mexico and Brazil to raise funds for their respective campaigns against the disease. The use of the identical Christmas Seal by five of the United Nations is particularly significant in the face of the wartime rise in tuberculosis that is occurring in many parts of the world."

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

up on one side, OPA on the other. Here is the line-up:

Howard R. Tolley, chief of the bureau of agriculture economics, says flatly that the price of corn must go up, so that corn-hog farmers will find it more profitable to sell their corn than to feed it to hogs.

J. B. HUTTON, assistant Director of the Food Production Administration, takes the same view as Tolley, and has more to say about the decision as head of an action agency.

RICHARD GILBERT, OPA economist, says, "The price of corn will go up over my dead body." He contends a price increase would let down the bars to a boost in the price of living all along the line.

ECONOMIC STABILIZER VINCENSON has made no commitment, but is known to be opposed. He fears that an increase for corn would increase prices of chicken feed and dairy feed and make things tough for all except corn farmers.

NOTE: Real trouble, according to many officials, is that hog farmer Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard long delayed in helping to put a ceiling price on hogs, and that even now the ceiling price on hogs is so profitable that hog farmers feed their corn at home rather than sell it.

"CONGRESSWOMAN" CLAIRE HOFFMAN

Broad-gauged young Representative Will Rogers, Jr., of California gets a lot of correspondence because of his aggressive stand on international issues, and takes it in his stride. However, a recent letter left him flabbergasted—though not half as flabbergasted as one of Rogers' two-flisted GOP colleagues, Representative Claire Hoffman, Michigan anti-New Dealer, might have been.

"I disagree with your views on foreign policies," the letter read, "because you are too much of an internationalist, like Vice-President Wallace. Thank God we still have some members of Congress with backbone enough to speak out for the other side, including two fine Congresswomen, Claire Boot Luce and Claire Hoffman."

STENOGRAPHER DELAYS BILL

The delay in Senate action on the Magnuson bill to repeal the Chinese Exclusion Act was not due to subversive influences, but to a shortage of manpower—or rather, woman-power. Senator Charles O. Andrews of Florida, chairman of the Immigration sub-committee which held hearings on the bill, broke down under questioning by Capital news-men and admitted:

"We would have had that legislation out of committee but for some personnel trouble. We hired a new stenographer recently and she got the testimony at the hearings all balled up."

FORREST SMITH SPEAKER FOR KIWANIS MEET

Forrest F. Smith

Forrest F. Smith, Columbus lawyer, and at present assistant prosecuting attorney for Franklin county, will speak on "Post-war Planning and The Service Club," at the meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening.

Mr. Smith is a former Assistant United States district attorney for the Southern District of Ohio; past president of the Northern Columbus Kiwanis Club; past lieutenant governor of the Fifth Division of the Ohio Kiwanis District and a former chairman of the district committee on Kiwanis Education. He has long been active in civic and public affairs in Columbus and has many friends in Circleville and Pickaway county.

Real Estate Boards in Cleveland . . . Onslow was on the Democratic payroll for years, helping Mike Strauss of the department of the Interior to write speeches and handle public relations for Ickes. Now he is sold on Bricker . . . Military observers consider the German invasion of Leros Island serious. Its effect on neutral Turkey is bad and, if the Germans regain control of the island, it would be a thorn in any Allied invasion of the Balkans across the Aegean . . . OPA will soon hoist prices for essential war commodities being produced by small war contractors. This is to compensate the contractors for higher labor costs . . . It looks as if there were enough House members from coal and oil regions to put across the Dimey-Johnson bill giving Ickes complete control over coal and oil. How the coal and oil boys hate OPA and love "Honest Harold" is really something!!!

ASHVILLE

The Ashville P. T. A. meeting Thursday was fairly well attended, other community activities preventing several from being present. An excellent talk on "Things for Which to be Thankful" was given by Lieut. Jung of the Lockbourne Air Base. An instrumental trio composed of Violet McDowell, Anne Shauck, and Helen Irwin presented two numbers. They were accompanied on the piano by Ellen Johnson. The treasurer's report showed a profit of $168.27 from the recent P. T. A. carnival, and a balance on hand of $285.95. The December meeting will be held on December 16th at 8:00 P. M., and it is hoped that other community organizations can keep this date open as an interesting program is being prepared by the music department.

Lieut. and Mrs. Jung and family were dinner guests of Rev. and Mrs. Fudge Thursday evening.

Petty Officer, 2nd class, and Mrs. Junior Purcell announce the birth of a son Friday, November 19 at Jacksonville, Florida. Mrs. Purcell is the former Velma Peters, a graduate of Jackson township High School. Junior Purcell, son of Mrs. T. W. Purcell, has been stationed at Jacksonville for the past two years.

Ashville—Mrs. Marianne Osborne, who has been visiting her husband in San Angelo, Texas for the past two weeks, expects to leave Dallas, Texas via American Airlines for the return trip on Tuesday, November 23rd.

Ashville—Paul Pettibone, at home after eight weeks' training at the Great Lakes Naval Base, expects to be sent to another training school upon his return. He reports that his "navy" day begins at 6:00 A. M. with a half-hour of calisthenics, followed by class-room studies, swimming, use of small firearms, first-aid, and numerous other activities. Paul's excellent appearance is testimony to the fine food and training which he is receiving; incidentally, Paul gained twenty-five pounds during his "boot" training.

Ashville—SAILOR GETS DIVORCE—Melvin J. Kneese was granted a divorce from Bessie J. Kneese in common pleas court, Thursday by Judge Meeker Terwilliger on grounds of gross neglect of duty. He also gained custody of the three year old daughter, Corina Jean, who was placed in the care of his mother, Lovie Kneese, Williamsport. Kneese is now serving in the Navy.
